Find Magazine Articles with Reader’s Guide Retrospective

The library has many magazines covering the time period of 1877-1920 in our print and microfilm collections (basement level). Use Reader’s Guide Retrospective to search for specific magazine articles on your topic and then use the “Periodicals” search on the library website to find out if the library owns the title and year you need.

1. In Reader’s Guide conduct a keyword search for your topic and use the “refine results” to narrow by date if needed.
2. Once you identify an article of interest, look for the name of the magazine, date etc. in the “source” information.
   - Example: This 12 page article called the “Lawrence Strike” appeared in the Atlantic Monthly on May 1912 (Volume 109).

3. To locate the full-text of this article use the “Periodicals” search on the library homepage.
   - Click on the “Periodicals” tab on the library homepage.
   - Type “magazine title” in the search box and hit submit.
   - Determine if the library has the year you need in its print or microfilm collection.
   - The 1912 issues of Atlantic Monthly are available in print format in the library basement.
